MESSAGE OF THE PRESIDENT

The Indian economy has successfully migrated to a higher position in the global competitive index. This upward transition requires resource efficient solutions, proper cost management and governance of the companies based on the principles of transparency, accountability and ethics & values keeping in view the interests of all stakeholders. The industry needs to develop Cost Competitiveness and follow responsible governance practices for ensuring sustained growth of Indian economy. I am proud to state that Cost and Management Accountants have played a significant role in this transition.

Cost and Management Accounting creates value and ensures sustainability by contributing to sound decision making through the comprehensive analysis and provision of information that enables and supports organizations to plan, implement and control the execution of their strategy. Cost information plays a critical role in every sector and all aspects of business. It is a tool to protect the interest of investors and public with timely information on wastages and optimum utilization of scarce resources. It helps the regulatory authorities and the tax authorities in augmenting revenue. Proper credit appraisal by the banks based on costing information can also help in reducing NPAs.

The Institute and its members are committed to serve the country by extending the expertise and support to the Government, industry and all sectors of the economy to achieve the desired economic and social objectives. The Institute has been actively collaborating with Government, Industry, and Academic institutions to undertake studies, research and to issue industry specific technical papers.

Friends, I am sure that with proven track record of success, CMAs are ready to play a significant role in shaping the future of the Indian Economy. The emerging areas like Industrial Revolution 4.0, Artificial Intelligence, Data Analytics, emerging regulatory environment and expanding service sector serve as opportunities for the CMA professionals, who can rely upon the power of their domain expertise and build their capacity to be the Force of the Future.

The 59th National Cost Convention of the Institute being organized on the theme Cost and Management Accountants: Power of the Past – Force of the Future at Pune, Maharashtra on 20th and 21st January, 2019. NCC-2019 will provide a forum for thoughtful discussions on the topics of relevance in today's business and economic context. The two days long national event of the Institute will have eminent speakers from Government, Industry, academics and Practice etc.

On behalf of the Institute, its Council and NCC Convention Committee, I urge upon all the Regional Councils, Chapters and members of the Institute to come forward and showcase the strength of CMA profession to all stakeholders by mobilising resources and delegates in large numbers.

I am confident that with the participation and support of a large number of distinguished guests and delegates from profession, industry, regulators and government, we would be able to make NCC-2019 a grand success.

59th National Cost Convention - 2019

ABOUT THE THEME

The global competitiveness is a challenge for everyone. In globally connected world, organizations require professionals with specialised knowledge of business strategy and value creation. To achieve extra ordinary results in the focused sectors wherein the country has a competitive advantage, completely enhanced business practices driven by the leadership of the Indian Industry are required. The Indian business has to adopt best cost and management accounting practices and embed the same in business processes for extra ordinary results.

The business will have to make strategic choices on competing with other economies on products/services, offer cost effective value added services, embed sustainable business practices and manage processes efficiently. These outcomes can be powered only by a robust cost and management accounting framework. Cost and Management Accountants are experiencing revolutionary change in almost all dimensions of their professional work environment. Increasingly, they are being asked to become business partners and change agents. Innovative technology and intense business competition are propelling this change in role from transaction processor to business partner. The speedy development in Information Technology has enabled professional accountants to gather data, perform analysis, and report information in real time.

The present Government, in its determination to put the Country into a growth path, has been increasing stress on physical infrastructure such as Energy, Railways, Roads, Ports, Irrigation, Water supply and Urban trunk infrastructure. Major Engineering sectors like Electronics, Heavy Engineering, Telecommunication services, Electricity, Defence Machinery and mechanical appliances in atomic energy sectors, Arms and ammunitions, Aeronautical services, Railway and tramway locomotives etc. have been included for maintenance of cost records and their cost by the Government of India. This will help the industry to improve productivity of all the resources, including natural resources, which in turn leads to the optimum utilisation of resources.

In the changing economic and regulatory scenario, role of cost and management accountants is also changing. They are now supposed to be seen as business analyst, strategy formulator, internal consultant or advisor or business partner, change agent, information provider, leader of and/or participator in cross functional teams, designer and manager of information systems, designer and controller of performance measurement systems, teacher, guide or educator, and interpreter and manager of complexity.

Necessary skills for Cost and Management Accountants identified in the changing scenario include adapting cost and management accounting technologies to new forms of manufacturing process, exploring data analytics and artificial intelligence in managing organisational change propelled by the Industrial Revolution 4.0, using a deeper understanding of organisational structuring, functioning and processes, sponsoring and innovation, personal skills, interpersonal skills, analytic / constructive skills, change agent and strategy formulator roles, ability to be intuitive, synthetic and creative thinking and proactivity and innovativeness and organisational design skills.

All this constitutes the agenda of the forthcoming National Cost Convention (NCC-2019) on Cost and Management Accountants: Power of the Past – Force of the Future to be held in Pune during 20th and 21st January 2019. There will be Technical Sessions with focussed discussions on the role of CMAs in the prevailing and emerging economic and regulatory environment of the Country, to enrich the knowledge of the participants and enhance the skill set of the professionals.
